

TAGLINE

Special and General see time differently, but they are forever timely.

SYNOPSIS

Siblings don't always see eye to eye, even though they are relative and since they are relativistic, especially the Relativity family. SITUATE is a family musical about maturity and how two relatives perceive its truths.

The Relativity siblings lost their parents when they were young. The pair were then well situated with countless inheritance, such as money and the spacetime fabric business, and counting ones, such as the concept of time. When General turns 18, Special throws General a birthday party. Despite this, the heavy-handed General is not looking forward to adulthood. What they see as 18, the light-hearted Special sees as ∞ (repeated infinity). This two-hander is a coming-of-age story with unending astrophysical jokes, familial charm, and timely truths.

(WORKING) PLOT SUMMARY

Special drags General onto the stage from the audience ("Situating Yourself"). The curtain unveils General's birthday cake. General dismisses the festivity ("I Already Ate"). Special tries to reassure General that life is just beginning ("Infinity Starts Now").

...

...

...

General finally blows out the candles ("Lights Out (There)").

CHARACTER BREAKDOWN

Character	Nature	Identity
SPECIAL RELATIVITY The sibling who feels ahead in life; they are the older sibling. Special wants to make light of the situation.	Light	Adult
GENERAL RELATIVITY The sibling who feels behind in life; they are the younger sibling. General wants to consider the gravity of the situation.	Heavy	Young Adult